

Royal Teak Collection

FAQ Sheet

About Us

Royal Teak Collection has been selling high-quality teak outdoor furniture for over 20 years. Using signature Danish Tradition designs and exceptional craftsmanship, Royal Teak Collection has grown into a well known brand across the industry by offering a high quality product as well as excellent customer service. Over the years, we have expanded our line to include all weather wicker, rope, and aluminum products while keeping our core values to offer a high quality outdoor product.

We warehouse all products in Pinellas Park, FL and can ship within 1-2 business days. We typically are in stock on most all products, but we send out weekly inventory reports to update our dealers with our stock levels and lead times. We try to group orders as best we can and work with dealers on when they want to ship to get the best freight rates. Freight quotes for orders are available upon request.

Sustainability

Our products are made throughout Southeast Asia, where we follow strict guidelines set in place by the local governments to combat deforestation. Royal Teak Collection is doing our part to use sustainably sourced teak by using government managed Indonesian Legal-Wood in products made in Indonesia and sustainably sourced FSC Certified Teak in our products made in other parts of Southeast Asia. We do this with the goal of benefiting not only the forests where our teak is sourced from but the people that live there and local economies as well.

Product Details

Teak Facts:

- Grade A Teak
- Kiln Dried
- Mortise and Tenon Joints for a tight fit
- Stainless Steel Hardware
- Natural Teak – no stain or oil is applied
- Rich in natural teak oil that protect the wood

Weathering Process

As teak ages outdoors, it will gradually turn from the natural honey color to a silver-grey patina due to the sunlight. This process can start happening within the first month, but will continue over several months to a year to fully patina based on how much sunlight the furniture is exposed to. During this time, you may notice the grains raising due to the natural expansion and contraction of the wood. They will lay back down and smooth out over time as the teak continues its aging process.

As the teak contracts or expands due to heat and moisture, the grains may separate causing small hairline cracks. Hairline cracks, also known as “checking”, are common in teak as the teak ages. These cause no structural damage and will smooth out over time.

Rope Facts

- Made from an all weather wicker core wrapped in nylon acrylic sock
- UV resistant
- Quick drying
- No need for cushions

Sling Facts

- Woven from durable, resilient PVC-coated polyester yarns
- Extremely strong and durable
- Very little stretch so it will not sag or tear under pressure
- PVC coating allows the sling to withstand the elements, be water resistant, and withstand UV rays
- Extremely breathable allowing for quick drying
- Slings are made by Phifertex

Cushion Facts

Royal Teak Collection

FAQ Sheet

- Royal Teak Collection uses only Sunbrella Fabrics for our deep seating
- Fade and UV resistant
- Fibers are dyed all the way through to retain rich colors over time
- Made to resist mold and mildew build up
- Engineered to resist stain and water

Royal Teak collection offers special order cushions and can source most all current Sunbrella Fabrics. Pricing varies by the grade of fabric. Lead times are typically 4-6 weeks for special order cushions. We do not allow COM.